ProductivityKitsEU

Co-Host Fee Check

A free short sheet for co-hosts in the EEA and Switzerland: what the single ~15.5% host fee does to the owner's payout and to your commission.

Inside: old vs new fee · break-even factor table · commission test · switch checklist

Fee facts checked 11 October 2026 · Independent, not affiliated with Airbnb · ProductivityKitsEU

1. What changed

	Split fee (old)	Single fee (new)
Host pays	Usually 3% of the booking subtotal	Usually 15.5% (remaining hosts typically 14–16%)
Guest pays	Guest service fee of 14.1–16.5% on top	No separate guest service fee
Charged on	Nightly price plus fees you add (cleaning, pet, extra guest). Taxes excluded. VAT may be added to Airbnb's fee.

- The single fee applies only to reservations made after the listing switches. Earlier bookings keep the old fees.
- Co-hosts can't make the one-time price adjustment; the listing owner has to.
- Airbnb's own example: set $100 before, guest sees $115, you earn $97. Under the single fee, keep $100 and you earn $84.50; set $115 to earn $97 again.

2. Break-even price in one line

Break-even factor = (1 − old host fee × (1 + VAT)) ÷ (1 − new fee × (1 + VAT))
No VAT on the fee: 0.97 ÷ 0.845 ≈ 1.148 · With 21% VAT on the fee: ≈ 1.186

Your current price	× 1.148 (no VAT)	× 1.186 (21% VAT)
80	91.84	94.88
100	114.80	118.60
150	172.20	177.90
Cleaning 40	45.92	47.44

Factors rounded; use the same factor for cleaning, pet and extra-guest fees. Calculations, not forecasts.

3. Which co-host are you? (commission test)

Your deal	Owner doesn't reprice	Owner reprices to break-even
% of host payout (Airbnb co-host payout)	Your payout drops with the owner's	Back to normal
% of gross bookings (contract)	Unchanged	Rises about 19% per booking (21% VAT example), paid by the owner

Worked example (3 nights × 100 + 40 cleaning, host not VAT-registered, 21% VAT on fee): 20% of payout = 65.53 old → 55.25 at same prices → 65.53 after repricing. 18% of gross = 61.20 → 61.20 → 72.60.

4. Switch checklist

☐	Note whether each listing has already switched (PMS-connected listings may switch earlier)
☐	Tell the owner in writing that only they can make the price adjustment
☐	Agree new prices with the owner: break-even, lower to stay competitive, or in between
☐	Re-check discounts, promotions, cleaning, pet and extra-guest fees
☐	Don't touch existing bookings: they keep the old fees
☐	Check your commission basis; if you're paid on gross, raise it with the owner before the next statement
☐	After a few weeks, compare the Earnings dashboard with your own numbers

Want it done with your own numbers? The Co-Host Money Kit for Europe adds a Fee Change Calculator, a 300-row bookings log, a Monthly Owner Statement, 6 commission models side by side, an 8-page guide and 3 editable owner letters.
jjnkdpf.gumroad.com/l/cohost-money-kit-europe

Sources: Airbnb Help Center "Airbnb service fees" (article 1857), "How co-host payouts work" (article 3389); Airbnb Resource Center "Simplifying service fees on Airbnb" (checked 11 Oct 2026). Airbnb can change fees at any time. Not tax, legal or accounting advice. Independent product, not affiliated with Airbnb. © 2026 Jiri Junek, ProductivityKitsEU.